SESSION SUMMARY

24 NOV 86

SITE: THE COLISEUM

..... first impressions and ideogram resembled those of a cliff or canyon..... the feeling was across, vertical up, across and hard,..... natural, browns, earthtones, sandy, gritty..... feeling of sand/water/vegetation interface.... AOL River..... viewed from above site looks like a crater or basin..... from the ground it was like standing under a huge dome or cavern..... empty and dark..... shifted focus to a time when people are present..... saw a mass of people at the base of tall structure... AOL-like a stepped pyramid with steps or stairs from base to top.... people at base obscured by dust..... 79 A.D.... people at base of structure 3-4 abreast in a long line... AOL-dressed like Roman soldiers.... still a lot of dust obscuring vision... angle at base of structure..... while still in 79 A.D. moved inside of structure.... at that time I knew exactly where I was.... the coliseum.... there were rows and rows of cheering, shouting people... it was like a scene from "The Gladiator" or "Ben Hur".... I made it a point to remain only as a spectator.

AOL matching was present during this session.
From above, the site looked like a crater or volcano. The structure looked like a tall, steep, stepped tower with stairs.

Also, it was interesting that the site contained no significance until there were people present.

(this seems to be a general characteristic of yours - we'll keep it in mind).
